AN

INDEX

TO

EVENTS RELATING TO INDIA AND THE EAST

REFERRED TO IN

"THE TIMES"

BETWEEN THE YEARS 1850 AND 1889 INCLUSIVE.

Printed by Order of the Secretary of State for India in Council.

The rapidity with which events move in the present day renders it almost a matter of impossibility to carry in one's mind even the principal incidents that occur. In the work of administration, therefore, it is most important to have some index rerum to aid the memory and fix the dates of past occurrences. Whilst this is particularly desirable with regard to leading events, it is often hardly less important in respect to those of comparatively minor importance; but to embrace all these in one work of reference would be impossible if official records only were referred to, for not only would the necessary entries from the departmental documents be too voluminous for practical purposes, and result in a work far too bulky for convenient use, but all non-official events, which often form important links in history, would, of course, be excluded.

In considering how this want could best be supplied for the use of this Office, I have, from time to time, proposed to myself the preparation of Indexes from various classes of official records, but in each case the task appeared so gigantic, and the probable expense so great, that I was deterred from carrying my project into effect, until I conceived the idea of making a compilation for this purpose of the references to India and the East contained in the quarterly issues of the "Index to the 'Times' newspaper." The Press is so fully informed of all the important events throughout the world, that it contains references to almost everything that needs to be remembered; and of all the papers "The Times" stands unequalled in this respect. Mr. Palmer's spirited effort to keep up an Index to that journal, almost concurrently with its publication, has provided an excellent basis, and the present volume consists of extracts from that work for the forty years from 1850 to 1889 inclusive.

The following pages contain, therefore, references to the leading events—political, administrative, and social—that occurred with reference to India and the East generally during the latter years of the Honourable East India Company and the first thirty-one years of the administration of India by the Imperial Government.

In compiling this work, a great deal more has been necessary than merely copying out and arranging selected items from the 160 volumes of Indexes from which they have been taken, since a large number of entries required to be altered or modified, the better to adapt them for convenience of official reference. In this work I have been most ably assisted by Mr. T. C. Fenton and Mr. W. Foster, whose services I am glad to take this opportunity of acknowledging.

F. C. DANVERS,
Registrar and Superintendent of Records.
